Tracy Degnan from the Rockingham County Conservation District gave a brief overview of the property that NRCS and the Town of Rye will be jointly conserving. She called attention to the fact that the parcel was originally an 81 acre purchase, but the landowner was retaining a small tract of 2.08 acres.

Chairman Winslow inquired about water rights on the property.

Art Ditto, Rye Water District Commissioner followed up with questions about what the process was to acquire water access through NRCS and Rye Conservation Commission.

Vice-Chair King said it would be a collaborative effort and would mirror what was done with the Rand property.

As the site walk progressed, Ms. Degnan identified where the easement boundaries were and further identified where the SELT land boundary was.

Chairman Winslow opened the discussion for public comment or questions. Hearing none, he closed that portion of the meeting.
